As you know, Afghanistan has a tremendous task to undertake in the next few years to ensure its sustainability and its participation on a regional and global platform.

The potential that communications and information networks can offer Afghanistan is real. The ability to surpass 23 years of destruction and to recapture lost ground is achievable.

The Transitional Government has a mandate to lay the foundations and sees the provision of Internet services, and its corollary, the establishment of the ccTLD as a key activity for our country.

We look forward to your assistance in this matter.

Sincerely,

Mohammad Masoom Stanekzai
Minister of Communications
Islamic Transitional Government of Afghanistan
